

CONTENTS

Color plates section follows page 162

- Disclaimer ix
Foreword by Gary Paul Nabhan xi
Preface by Kathleen Maier xiii
Preface by Jeffrey Holt McCormack xvii
Acknowledgments xxi
Bahamas and San Salvador Island Maps xxiii
San Salvador Island: A Thumbnail Sketch xxv
Introduction xxvii
    Background and purpose of the research xxvii
    Scope and methodology xxviii
    Oral histories xxix
    Ethnobotany and intellectual property rights xxx
- 1. Cultural Roots and History of Bush Medicine 3
    A sense of history: Medicinal and spiritual traditions of African ancestors of Bahamian slaves 3
        The Mandingo 3
        The Hausa 4
        The Fulani 4
        The Igbo 4
        The Ijo 5
        The Yoruba 5
    Conditions of slavery: Factors affecting the transmission of ethnomedicinal knowledge 5
    West African ethnomedicine in the Bahamas: Transformation and reformulation 7
        Medicinal plant literacy 8
        European and Amerindian influences 9
    Bush medicine in San Salvador Island: How they learned 9
- 2. Expressed Belief Systems Related to Bush Medicine 15
    Belief systems 15
    Bush medicine versus conventional medicine 15
    “Well, I got a whole hospital right here!” 17
    Bush medicine as a spiritual gift 17
    Obeah 17
    “The mole” 20
    Respecting the medicine: Plant conservation 21
- 3. Principles and Practices of Bush Medicine 25
    Harvest and preparation 25
    Dosage and administration 27
    Odd-numbered combinations of bush medicine plants 28
    Conflicting information 29
    Energetics of bush medicine 29
- 4. A Sense of Place: The Geography of San Salvador Island 33
    Geological beginnings 33
    Physical geography 34
    Climate and weather 34
    Vegetation 34
    Map of San Salvador Island 35
    Animals and insects 36
    Pre-Columbian settlements 37
    The Columbian transformation 37
    The post-discovery era 39

Watling's Island/San Salvador Island: What's in a name? 39	Myrtis Jones 252
The Loyalist era (1783–1788) 40	Mary Allen 253
The decline of plantation agriculture 40	Recent ancestors: Memories of the last of San Salvador Island's bush medicine midwives 253
Post-emancipation 41	Sophia Pratt 253
Recent cultural and economic history 42	Helen Forbes and Lovely Ellis 255
5. Materia Medica: Medicinal Plants of San Salvador Island 45	Appendix 1. Future Explorations 257
How to read, interpret, and use this chapter 45	Appendix 2. Oral Histories: Life on San Salvador Island 259
Definition of terms 46	Hurricanes 259
Key to descriptive categories for each plant 47	Predicting the weather 261
Key to interviewees 48	Use of black torch for hunting crabs at night 261
Key to authors/interviewers 48	Using sisal to make cord and rope 264
Literature and website sources 48	Harvesting and drying salt from salt ponds 265
Materia medica and therapeutics 49	Footwear 266
6. Midwifery, Pregnancy, and Childbirth 223	Clothing 267
Granny medicine 223	Using monkey fiddle as a living fence 268
Erma Pratt and her grandmother, midwife Sophia Pratt 225	Trapping wild cows 269
Mabel Williams 227	Agricultural practices and saving seed 270
Eulease Storr 229	The internal economy: Trade, barter, and cash exchange 278
Susilee Anderson 229	Slavery, voodoo, and stories of buried treasure 279
Myrtis Jones 230	Life in the 1930s 281
Tom Hanna 230	Electricity 284
Bertram Forbes 230	Supplying kerosene to the Dixon Hill lighthouse 285
7. Non-botanical Remedies 233	Obtaining fresh water 286
8. Practitioner Portraits 243	Glossary of Terms 288
Interviewees 243	Glossary of Bahamian Dialect 291
Bertram Forbes 243	References 294
Thomas Hanna 246	Contributors 305
Erma Pratt 248	Index of Medicinal Plants According to Principal Uses 307
Mabel Williams 249	Index of Scientific Names 312
Eulease Storr 250	Index of Common Names 316
Susilee Anderson 251	Subject Index 327